

A Thousand Thanks

BY ANONYMOUS

“I wanted to take a moment to reflect on the difference Pathfinders made in my life. First of all, meeting my Pathfinder was a pleasure. Her kind and understanding heart was so welcome as I faced the challenges of breast cancer and all the ramification’s from the diagnosis.

Pathfinders helped me in more ways than one. They gave me the breathing room I needed to be able to work things out within myself. They helped me with financial assistance since I was unable to work, and, most importantly, they gave me hope that things would come together. Thus, I will pirate a quote from an artist I admire:

“I read once that the ancient Egyptians had fifty words for sand and the Eskimos had a hundred words for snow. I wish I had a thousand words for thank you, but all that comes to mind is the way you moved by herd and there are no words for that.”

You did not need to do what you did, but you did and I am blessed. Thank you Pathfinders.”
